

Prof. Stengel is working as a clinician scientist at the Charité Berlin as well as at the University hospital in Tuebingen in the Clinics for Psychosomatic Medicine and Psychotherapy. His research interests are the psychoendocrine regulation of hunger and satiety as well as eating disorders. In this field he performed numerous studies, often using a translational approach. He published more than 130 articles.